Basalt

A fork of Quartz for hypertext gardens, set like a good math textbook: the argument down the middle, remarks in the margin.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

Embeds

Images, video, audio and pdfs, each a figure with a caption and a way out.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

Web

YouTube as a facade, tweets as quotes, any page in a frame on request.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

Diagrams

Graphviz drawn at build time, mermaid in the browser, graphs with isaacchacko/graph.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

Islands

Preact, React or plain-js components, rendered at build time and mounted in place.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

Margins

Footnotes become sidenotes beside the line that cites them, after Edward Tufte.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.

This page exists to give the viewer something to show: a heading, a few lines of text, and a page number, the way a real document would.